FINANCE AND TRADE.

IN FINANCIAL CIBCLES the call for money is becoming pressing, and will be the characteristic of the market until enough new cotton comes in to afford relief; money will be tight before long. Exchange remains below requirements, and shipping currency proceeds constantly. The brokers paid 1081@1081 for the little gold that was offered them. At Heathen Chines corner Mr. Trezevant held an auction of stocks and bonds, with the following result: 28 $500 Raleigh railroad bonds were sold, of which leigh railroad bonds were sold, of which: $4000 went at 31, and $4000 and $5000 at 32; $5000 bonds of the Memphis gas company, 7 per cent., running 30 years, at 76; $1000 Memphis and Charleston railroad stock at 17; $1000 Memphis oil company's stock at 50c; a lot of Missis-sippi valley scrip at 10c. In the street a bid of 16; was made on 900 shares of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, but he auction sale above appears to fix the uying price at 17. The tax-collector naving given notice that all banking, surance, gas, and street railroad companies must pay their taxes, or distress warrants would be issued against them, several parties connected with these interests called on the proper city official yesterday, and tendered their due taxes, as defined by the act of the legislature are brisk. The balance of the Glepham (1972) which waveless as is claimed. of 1873, which provides, as is claimed, that there shall not be imposed a higher tax on such institutions than the State and county tax. The tender made was refused, and it is probable that the courts will be appealed to, to settle the diffe ence existing between the corporative and the bank officials.

CARD.

To My Fellow-Citizens - Especially My Personal Friends: entertaining the respect and attachment that I do for the noble science of law, or worthy to be called a lawyer, practices his profession under so great embarrassments as I have struggled under since 1965. The causes of this are best known to myself.

Some years ago I ran for one of the Judgeship—and, the country being then in a fremry of excitement as great as at the present time, on a similar subject, and with just as little reason—I shared the fate of an inharksters. Now, another opportunity offers—not in the line of my professional aspiration, it is true,—but one which will pay as much as I received by the Judge who presides over the Court, and which would afford a living for my family and a small margin for payment of debts. Hence, I ask your votes.

You all know that this is not a political election, and that it is directly subversive of republican instinutions to thrust politics into misiness and private matters or the election of judicial and county offecers; and that how ever the candidates may be retired by unsever the candidates.

voidable picilges, the people are regrantroou-as they picase.

I am sure that no sincere and magnantroou-man can take exception to my being a Reputs itean, because I am convinced II is my duty to be so. Nor would I change fronts on this subject for any office in America. To run as an independent candidate you know would be worse than useless, and in asking of my part; a nomination, I had to take a position, and did so. The sharp inst of prescription said de annetation was circling over my head, no both from public and private courses, three-and invectives were harded at mo; and cons-quently, in announcing myself beaver the couently, in announcing myself beare the co ention, I used language far more vehemes ad defiam than would otherwise have bee tered have been grossly distorted and perverted.

Those who say or write that, in indorsing
the civil rights bill, I favor "annigamation," mixed schools, or mixed anything else; or any interference with any social or private malter; or that I want to not the blacks above the whites, do me great injustice. As to my political position arising from fanatical ideas of religion, etc., I have only to say that I became an opposer of hemocracy over thirty years
